The animal attacked an elderly woman, who wore a heavy fur coat and though he ripped the garment he did not injure her. The coat sleeves of several men were torn by the dog's teeth as he jumped at them in his wild run through the streets. Men struck at the dog with their canes, which snapped at them and frothed at the mouth, while boys threw stones, but everybody seemed to be a poor

Through South Third avenue the chase went on, with the two policemen in the lead. Lieutenant Silverstein, when his automobile was close to the dog, fired two shots, and it is believed he wounded it in the leg, as it limped slightly, and then it ran into the yard of Sarah Fals, who keeps a boarding house at No. 238 South Third avenue.

"Now we have him cornered," said Silverstein to Mattes. "Have your gun ready and managed to escape through an adjoining yard. For blocks the yards were searched, but the dog had disappeared. Two hours later Lieutenant Clark, at Police Headquarters, received word from Mrs. Walter Flandreau, in South Sixth avenue, that the same yellow dog had run into her yard and bitten two pet dogs,

Four policemen, including James Reilly on a motorcycle, were sent out to find the animal, but they could get no trace of him. He had dashed through half a dozen back yards, and after biting four more dogs disappeared in the direction of the woods at East Chester. In all, at least five persons were nipped by the animal.
